THE BEST DOCTOR.

Rev. B. C. Horton, Sulphur Springs, Texas, writes, July 19th, 1899: "I have used in my family Ballard's Snow Liniment and Horshond Syrup, and they have proved certainly satisfactory. The liniment is the best we have ever used for headache and pains. The cough syrup has been our doctor for the last eight years." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Hinde Drug Co.

Placing for the Unattainable.

The late W. E. Henley once met Robert Louis Stevenson, and found his friend distressed because he was not a Voltaire or a Dumas, though he had an equipment which ought to have made him their peer. Stevenson put his "failure" down to the weakness of his lungs. "Perhaps you are right, Louis," said Henley; "I've always felt that, if I had not been a blessed cripple, I could have taken the earth in my hand and hurled it into the sun."

Value of the Nile Dam.

A recent report from Cairo indicates that all the expected benefits from the great dam at Assuan have been realized. All the water stored during the winter in the reservoir for summer consumption has now been completely discharged and the irrigation of the summer crop is assured. A largely increased area of cotton has been irrigated and Assuit and Minieh have received summer water for the first time. The rotations of crops have been greatly modified.

A Delicate Instrument.

For measuring feeble illuminations, like the zodiacal light and Gegenschein, M. Touchet has devised a special instrument, resembling a theodolite in appearance. It is provided with a constant flame and a slit regulated in width by a screw with divided head, and when the illumination of the field through the slit exactly equals the light to be measured a reading is obtained that is easily reduced to a standard.

Chili's Open Harbor.

Eight thousand vessels, with a tonnage of 12,000,000, entered Valparaiso harbor, Chili, during the last year. The harbor is an open roadstead, giving absolutely no protection to ships, and its water is too deep to permit the building of a breakwater. Once in about seven years a storm from the north does great damage by heaving vessels and destroys a hundred or more lives.

His Rise in the World.

Pedro Alvarado, the multi-millionaire mining man, who died recently at Parral, was one of the most spectacular characters in Mexico. Six years ago, he was a barefooted peon, working in a mine at 30 cents a day. He discovered a wonderful prospect, now known as the Pal Milla mine, and in a short time was worth millions.

Peculiar to Samoa.

Kava, the national beverage of Samoa, is a wholesome and refreshing drink, though not agreeable to the unaccustomed palate. A really good old kava-bowl is a curiosity difficult to obtain. The frequent brewings coat the inside with a beautiful opalescent enamel, which greatly enhances the value of the bowl.

Sight of Animals.

An Austrian naturalist named Werner has ascertained by numerous experiments that frogs can see no objects at a distance of over 20 times the length of their bodies. Crocodiles can distinguish objects ten times the length of their bodies and boa constrictors only one-quarter of their own length.

Curious Books.

There are books in the British museum written on bricks, tiles, oyster shells and flat stones, and manuscripts on bark, ivory, leather, parchment, papyrus, lead, iron, copper and wood; as well as three copies of the Bible written on the leaves of the fan palm.

Vice Likes Company.

You say that you have only one vice—but mark you, it will not be lonely long. There is nothing more sociable than vice, and it is bound to entertain, sooner or later, a big house party of its peers.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

A Strange Industry.

One of the strangest industries known is that of the preparation of the skin of the common eel for articles of commerce. The skin, when prepared, closely resembles leather, but is more pliable.

The Pine Tree.

On an average a pine tree will yield turpentine for about five years, and after that time it is cut down and sent to the saw mill, the previous "boxing" for turpentine in nowise injuring its value for lumber.

Helped Popularize Bicycling.

Queen Victoria herself was the first member of England's royal family to take an enthusiastic interest in wheeling and to buy the first modern machine ever ridden by royalties in England.

Germany Should Be Warned.

Germany is reported to be anxious to secure an island in the Bight of Biafra. Germany should be warned against blighting off more than she can conveniently masticate.

Defining a Fool.

What and who is a fool? The answer's easy. Anyone who thinks he is as wise as you and I know we are.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

Dogs That Cross the Ocean.

The cost of a dog ticket from Liverpool to New York varies from $10 to $30, according to the size of the animal.

A Common Exception.

Old Batch—Do you believe in whipping children?

Mrs. Extrygood—It depends on whose children they are.—Baltimore American.

Ethics of Borrowing.

If you wear a tailor-made suit, don't strike a man wearing a hand-me-down for a loan.—Athlison Globe.

Would Gild a Long Wire.

Sixteen ounces of gold would be sufficient to gild a wire that would encircle the earth.

Why Suffer with Backache?

I have suffered several years with backache, and after taking one bottle of

I have been cured. Since then I have not been troubled with my back. Too much can not be said in its praise.

The Best Brown Paint.

Ground-up mummy makes a brown of a certain rare color that nothing else can give. It is on account of the asphaltum in the mummy that this is so. The Egyptians wrapped their dead in garments coated with asphaltum of an incomparably fine and pure quality. This asphaltum, as the centuries passed, impregnated the tissues of the dead themselves. It turned them into the best paint material in the world. Being exceedingly expensive, it is used only by portrait painters in depicting brown hair.

Not Satisfied with One.

On the South African ostrich farms it is no uncommon thing to see a male bird strutting about followed by three or four broods, all of different sizes. When the incubating process is completed the cock bird leads his young ones off, and, if he meets another proud parent, engages in a terrific combat with him. The vanquished bird retires without a single chick, whilst the other, surrounded by two broods, walks away triumphantly.

Mice as Musicians.

A well-known Continental scientist declares that he has often heard mice sing. He says the "music" generally begins about sunset. One evening he noiselessly opened a cupboard, and observed for about half a minute the movements of the throat of a mouse, which he says emitted a song like that of the wren, though, of course, nothing like so shrill, the snout being elongated and held up in the air as a dog does when it howls.

Making Life a Burden.

The Bayanzi, who live along the Upper Congo, have a strange custom which makes life a burden to their married women. Brass rods are welded into great rings round the necks of the wives. Many of these rings worn by the women whose husbands are well-to-do weigh as much as 30 pounds, and this burden must be carried by the wives as long as they live.

Shooting Stars.

We should think of shooting stars as solid shot about the size of a cherry or cherry-stone, each of them flying with 100 times the speed of a bullet as far as the orbit of Uranus, and returning to the earth's distance from the sun three times in a century, unless it strikes our atmosphere, and is burned up in a flash, says the American Inventor.

Emblematic of the Union.

In some private grounds in Kent there has long stood an interesting memorial of the union of Scotland and England. It consists of a Scottish fir and an oak growing close together, and mingling branch with branch. The trees, it is stated, were planted in 1707 expressly to commemorate the union of the two sister realms.

Looking After the Birds.

The Audubon society in North Carolina has branches in eight towns and cities, including Raleigh and Wilmington. It has 280 members, who pay five dollars each per year. The society employs men on the coast at $45 to $50 a month to look after violations of the law against killing birds.

Waves Travel Faster Than Wind.

Waves travel faster than the wind which causes them, and in the Bay of Biscay frequently, during the autumn and winter in calm weather, a heavy sea gets up and rolls in on the coast 24 hours before the gale which causes it arrives, and of which it is the prelude.

For Heavier Rails.

The German reichstag has made an appropriation for heavier rails and ties for the Berlin-Zossen railway, upon which the widely advertised high speed electric trains failed a year ago because the track was too light.

Curious Insurance Idea.

A French (feminine) writer suggests that every couple before marrying should compulsorily insure the future of their children. She suggests one cent a day would be a sufficient premium.

Quick Harvest.

In parts of Norway and Sweden, where, during the summer, there is almost continuous daylight, only some six to eight weeks' interval elapses between the sowing of barley and the harvest time.

The World's Silk Product.

In 1902 the world consumed 72,799,800 pounds of silk. The largest consumer was China, with over 14,000,000 pounds, followed next by America, with 10,780,000 pounds.

A Suspicion.

Occasionally we have an experience that arouses a suspicion in us that we really haven't much more sense than we used to have after all.—Puck.

The Bore.

A man who bores you frequently introduces the conversation with: "Now, I don't want to bore you."—Washington (Ia.) Democrat.

The Peach in China.

The peach is considered the most wholesome of fruits by the Chinese, and its praises are sung by the poets of their land.

A Useful Needle.

Without his needle the mariner could not thread his way across the sea.—Chicago Daily News.

SAVED HIS LIFE.

J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump in my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well. It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by Hinde Drug Co.
